DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, NOV. 22, 1833.

HENRY CLAY.—The Richmond Whig, a Clay and nullifying paper, asserts that Mr. Clay will act with the Nullifiers this winter.—We will see.

JAMES STUART, Esq., European Agent, has arrived again in the United States, and is expected to arrive in this city early in December.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.—The suggestion, that General Jackson will be a candidate for re-election, which at first was deemed too extravagant to be seriously listened to, begins to assume a character of probability. Three years ago, any person who predicted that Andrew Jackson would, in violation of the rule established by Washington, and sanctioned by Jefferson, Madison, and Moore, aim at the presidentship, for a third term, would at once have been denounced as a calumniator, and an enemy to the fair fame of the Second Washington.—Now, however, it has become a grave question; and that which, a short time ago, would have been deemed an enormity, is now, by some of his parasites, looked upon as a mere matter of course.

We observe that some of the papers, opposed to General Jackson, profess to be anxious that he should again be a candidate, because, as they pretend to believe, he will be defeated.—To all such we say, "lay not the flattering unction to your soul."—Little as we would desire it, we venture to predict, that if he is again a candidate, he will again be elected.—What reason is there to expect a different result? "Oh!" exclaims some credulous soul—"the Jackson party would never consent to elect a man a third time. The Constitution fixes no limit to the eligibility to the presidentship; but the father of his country did, and the people will sustain the limit which he established." Now, we do assert that such reasoning is ridiculous, and that there is nothing in the history of Jacksonism to justify it.—The whole history of that party proves that it goes for Jackson—'right or wrong.'

We have conversed with various Jackson men, within two weeks, who declared that they would on no account support him for a third term—we, however, told them that they were mistaken—we assured them that they would support him, not only a third term, but a fourth, a fifth, and a sixth term.—Some of them have been displeased, and asked us if we thought they were entirely destitute of principle and patriotism. Without answering this question, we have told them that the whole history of the party proved that they could always view matters as would best suit their support of the Hero. When they have asked us far a single item of evidence, upon this subject, we have given them a half a dozen.

During Mr. Adams' administration, the printing of the laws was taken from five or six printers, who were opposed to his administration, and given to his friends. General Saunders immediately offered resolutions in congress upon the subject—the removal of these printers was denounced as dangerous and corrupt, by the Jackson members, and the denunciation was re-echoed by the Jackson men, from every hole and corner of the country.—In the course of time, however, General Jackson was elected, and at one fell swoop the printing of the laws is taken from every man opposed to him, and his conduct is approved by the Jackson party, in every part of the country.

Mr. Adams appointed a few members of congress to office, and at once the patriotic and sensitive Jackson party raised an outcry against this dangerous practice; General Jackson, however, appointed members of congress, by wholesale, and at once this patriotic, consistent, and clear sighted party discovered that it was all very right, and that members of congress are best qualified for such appointments.

A few years ago, Colonel Hayne, Mr. Calhoun, Mr. M'Duffie, and other bosom friends of General Jackson, broached the abominable doctrine of Nullification, and Mr. Webster strenuously opposed and exposed its dangerous tendency. Immediately the Jackson party, from Maine to Georgia, raised a cry of approbation of the doctrines of Colonel Hayne, and denounced Mr. Webster as an aristocrat. Two years afterwards, however, General Jackson quarreled with the father of Nullification, and wished to destroy him; and at once this independent and patriotic party discovered that Nullification was all wrong, and Mr. Webster's doctrines sound constitutional law.

Such are a few of the items in the history of this party—many others might be mentioned, which satisfy us, most conclusively, that this great party are as pliable and as obedient to the beck of their leaders as a well trained spaniel is to the bidding of his master.

We therefore say, it is absurd to expect any great change against General Jackson; and we venture to predict that, if he should run a third, a fourth, and a fifth time, he will be elected again, and again, and again!

☞The Cumberland Presbyterian Church will be opened, for Divine Service, on Sunday, at 11 o'clock.—Sermon by the Rev. A. M. Bryan.
Pittsburgh, Nov. 22.

What does this mean?—A meeting of the friends and advocates of State Rights, from all parts of the State of Georgia, is called to meet at Milledgeville, on the 13th inst., and a meeting of the friends of the Union, from all parts of the State, is also called, to meet at the same place on the 20th.—Southern Patriot.

Insult.—"I do not know how you will relish it," said a subscriber who was owing us a couple of dollars, "but I will venture to insult you, by offering you a dollar, now, which is all the cash I have by me." We assured him that no offence was given, and that we would be perfectly willing to receive such insults every day. We always pocket them.—Erie Obs.

Munchengratz.—This place, selected by the Emperors of Austria and Russia, for a dish of Imperial chat, is a small town on the 'Yser rolling rapidly.' It is 40 miles from Prague, in a north easterly direction, and contains 2,700 inhabitants.

Another Steam Boat Accident.—We learn, from Capt. Boggs, of the Free Trader, from Florence, that the steam boat Illinois, Capt. Bell, on her way from St. Louis to this place, has met with one of those fatal accidents, so common to our steam boats. A few days since—the day not precisely known—one of her boilers collapsed, and an explosion took place, by which twenty eight persons were scalded, of which number, thirteen were scalded to death, and lost overboard. Captain Boggs has furnished us with the following list of the dead and wounded. The accident took place in the Mississippi, about five miles above the mouth of the Ohio:

James Tott, cabin passenger, dead.

THE CANAL.

We have been politely permitted, by the Collector of this port, to extract the following particulars from the annual Report of the business of the Canal, done at this office, for the year, ending 31st October, 1833, which we lay before our readers, to give them some idea of, and call their attention, to the increasing importance of this great public improvement.

The total tonnage of property on which toll was collected, in said year, at this office, is 23,186,069 lbs.
Of these, the principal articles were:
Iron, 12,034,508 lbs.
Dry Goods, 5,649,800 "
Salt, 2,512,050 "
20,195,358 lbs.

The remaining three millions of pounds, consisting of various articles, all of which, excepting 12,000 gallons of foreign liquors and about 6,000 lbs. of Copper and Tin, are the products of the industry of our own country.

During the month of August (the driest known for many years) the tonnage, tolled at this office alone, was nearly one million and a quarter of pounds; and, for the two months of August and September, the Canal was doing a reasonable business, the tonnage cleared at this office, for the said two months, exceeding three million and a half of pounds.

The amount of tolls paid to the Collector of this port, for the past year, is $14,207 65.

The number of boats cleared, in said year, 693.

The number of miles passengers traveled 199,635.—Blairsville Record, Nov. 20.

From the New York Daily Advertiser.

J. DOWNING, MAJOR, DOWNINGVILLE MILITIA, 2D BRIGADE—(we like to be particular.)—We lay before our readers a letter from our distinguished friend, who, as usual, seems to be engrossed with important matters. We feel no compulsion to applaud, but we venture to say that among the numerous happy illustrations which are generally found in the Major's letters—none are more ingenious, or more to the point, than the hunt for the General's spectacles. Nor can we conceive how he could more humorously call us to reflect on the possibility of a hunt after the public deposits, in the event of any portion of them getting in a pocket with a hole in it.

Washington, 12th Nov., 1833.

To my old friend Mr. Dwight, of the New York Daily Advertiser.

I have always been tellin the Gineral, as you know, that, of all troubles, there was none so tuff to get round as money troubles, and, when such matters get in a snarl, it was worse than trying to straiten a melitia line after dinner. I was always afraid that we was gettin too many folks to handle the money, and to be figerin at the accounts.—Ever since I was a boy, I always had a notion that the fewer hands in countin the better, and the less you handle money the better, for the more you handle it, some how, the less it grows. And then agin I told the Gineral over and over agin, dont meddle with the Bank, says I, the money is safe enuf there, and one pocket, says I, Gineral, is better than twenty. But you know when I was in New York with Zekel Bigelow, tryin to find out the cause of money bein scarce, and when Zekel broke his watch showin me how the United States Bank worked among other banks, the folks some how got round the Gineral, and the deposits was removed.

I have been looking out for trouble ever since, though I was bound to stick to the General, right or wrong, as I telled him I would.

Tother day, when we came to that part of the message where we have to speak of money matters, we sent for Mr. Taney, our new Secretary of the Treasury, to bring in his accounts; he warnt quite ready, for he aint as quick at siferin yet as he will be to rights, so we waited for him a spell, and left a place here and there in the message, jest big enuf to put in figers; and so last night the Gineral sent agin, and said he must have the counts "ready or not ready," and up they came, sure enuf, and not more than half cooked; but the Gineral wont wait for nothing when he's in a hurry. Now, says he, Major, turn to, and see how they stand with last year. And so at I went, comparin all the amounts of outlays, the Gineral all the while smokin and thinkin pretty hard, with his feet up on the mantle. I figered up the sums pretty quick, considerin there was a good many on em called estimates, and when I got to the end on't, now, says I, Gineral, you know I telled you that we could git up and put down nullification in no time—we could turn out a cabinet, and appoint other folks—we could send ministers abroad, and let em come home as soon as they pleased, and send other folks in their places, and give all full pay too—we could nock the United States Bank and Squire Biddle all into splinters—we could let our folks go on the Ingin lands in one place, and drive em off in other places, and git up an Ingin war—and appoint new officers here and there—and have new auditors to settle accounts—and let things go on in the Post Office pretty much to suit the folks there; and instead of having one Bank for our money, scatter it about among the Banks of our friends. All this we could do, and have done, and have taken the responsibility too, and the folks like us the better for it—but, says I, when they come to see what it all costs, there'll be trouble, now I tell you, says I. Why, Major, says the Gineral, what's the matter, aint the government economical, says he, do you expect to make reforms without costing something? Can you clear up swamps, and cut ditches, and remove old stumps without expense? Yes, says I, Gineral, that's all true. But plague on't, says I, its been going on so now nigh upon five years; and, says I, it keeps costin more and more, and we are nearer being swamp'd and stump'd than ever; here, says I, now jist look and see what the Government costs, and what it cost when Mr. Adams was President; and that aint the worst on't, says I, our mony is here, there, and every where; and I dont see how we shall find it when we want it." As soon as I mentioned the amount of the sums I had fingered up, the Gineral jumps up, and he did stomp about a spell, I tell you—he smash'd down his pipe, and it flew into more than forty pieces—says he, Major, aint you mistaken; no, says I, there is no mistake about me Gineral—let me see them accounts, says he; and he begun to feel for his spectacles, first in one pocket then in another—for he had no less than seven besides his watch fob—and he couldn't find his spectacles—says he, Major, have you seen my spectacles, no says I, Gineral I haint—where do you keep em, says I?—why, says he, I used always to keep em in this side breast pocket, but I have been so pester'd lately, I must have chang'd pockets—that's bad, says I, Gineral, especially, says I, when one wants eny thing in a hurry. Now, says I, I only keep one pocket, and I got that notion, says I, from Squire Biddle, for he keeps eny most every thing in one pocket, and he can tell, in a minit, pretty much all about eny thing. The Gineral kept all the while feelin and turnin his pockets inside out; but no spectacles—by the eternal, says he, Major, I reckon them are spectacles are somewhere in one of these pockets, and I'll find em, says he, if I have to take my shirt off, and at it he went, and he off coat and jacket and I dont know what all, and I all the while shakin em to find the spectacles—by and by I see a whole in his pantaloons pocket, "I'm on track now, says I, Gineral here's a hole; and sure enuf, when he come to take off his boots, there was his best gold rim specs, and all broke to flinders—and if we had'nt been looking for em, and if I had'nt seen that hole, you never would say they ever had been specs, for they were all jam'd to nothin.

There was a curious notion then jest come into my head, and I stood stock still, holdin the Gineral's pantaloons in one hand and his right boot upside down in tother, and there lay the specs on the floor (or what there was left on em;) and the Gineral stood lookin at me with eny most nothin on him, and the Message and the Treasury counts and my slate lay on the table—there warn't a word said for more than 10 minits—an awful time to stand so.

So to rights the Gineral he spoke, and, says he, Major, what are you thinkin on—why, says I, Gineral, I was thinkin, says I, if you had kept your spectacles in your side breast pocket, they would be on your nose now; but, says I, that aint the worst on't, I'm afraid, says I, General, we've got too many pockets for our mony, and when we want it we shall have to come to our shirts and boots before we find it.

The Gineral got as hornity as all nature at this, and says he, "Major I wish now you was only Calhoun, or Biddle, or Clay, or M'Duffy, or Don Pedro, or Black Hawk, or any one but Maj. Downing—for I feel as if I should like to give some one a thrashing." Why, says I, Gineral, you ain't mad nor nothin be you, for I am too? says I; and ev'ry time I look at the accounts, says I, I feel as if I would like to get hold of some one—and so we stomped about a spell, cussin and discussin most things, till we got cool again—but it was considerable of a storm, I tell you.

Your friend,
J. DOWNING, Major,
Downingsville Militia, 2d Brigade.

Daniel Webster.—Mr. Webster, as we are reminded by a well written Memoir attached to a very fine head in Herring's Portrait Gallery, is now 51 years of age—52 next 18th of January. He was born in Salisbury, N. H. at that time a frontier town, where his father was, we believe, the first settler.—After passing his early life on a farm, like Cass (who was born in the same State and the same year) Marshall, Clay, M'Lane, and many other of our ablest men, he was enabled by considerable sacrifices on the part of his family to enter Dartmouth College at the age of 17, where he graduated in 1801. He began the study of law in his native place, and finished it under Governor Gore in this city, where he was admitted to the bar in 1805. Having paractsed two years at Boscawen, N. H. he removed to Portsmouth, where he is supposed to have derived some benefit from his intercourse with Chief Justice Smith and his encounters with Mr. Mason. He entered political life in 1812, at the age of 30, as a Representative to Congress, and continued in it till 1816, when he removed to this city, and devoted himself for several years exclusively to his profession, with the exception of being one of the great Convention for revising the Constitution of 1820–21, in which he took a leading part, and of delivering his well known Anniversary Address at Plymouth, Dec. 22, 1820. In 1825 he addressed Lafayette on Bunker Hill; in 1826, he pronounced the Eulogy of Adams and Jefferson in this city; from 1823 to 1827 he represented this district in Congress, and since that time he has been twice elected a Senator of the State.—Bost. Merc. Jour.

Great Carriage Manufactory.—The most extensive light carriage manufactory in New England, is owned by Messrs. Knowles & Thayer, of Amherst, in that state. Their business is carried on by seventy first rate workmen, and the English system of a division of labor is fully tested. Each man is confined to a single branch of work, and it is estimated that these seventy accomplish the labor of at least one hundred and twenty five in the old system. They have turned out, since the 1st of April, Landaus, Barouches, Coaches, and Carriages, to the amount of 35,000, of a superior style and finish. They have just completed a Barouche for President Jackson, at the cost of $1,400, which is one of the most splendid vehicles built in this section of the country. They are likewise building a Barouche for Mr. Secretary M'Lane, Mr. Otis, and a number of gentlemen of this city. They have now orders from this city of upwards of fifty carriages. Their operations are assisted by a steam engine, which propels the lathes, stones, and wheels, for the finish of all parts of the work. The harness making, plate working, painting, and varnishing, is all carried on under the immediate inspection of the enterprizing proprietors.—Boston Transcript.

Arrest of the Murderers.—On Friday last, four men, named Felix Murray, James Trodden, Wm. Reynolds, and George M. Kennity, were arrested near Bustleton, on their flight from the city, suspected of being part of the gang who committed a brutal murder on the person of Joseph Stancliff. They were committed to prison by Judge Knight, who resides in the vicinity of Bustleton, and at 12 o'clock on Saturday morning were brought before the Mayor, to undergo an examanation. Murray was fully identified by Mrs. Stancliff as the man who beat her husband with the leather strap. Her appearance, with an infant of very tender age in her arms, excited much commisseration in the audience, as her situation is known to be extremely destitute. The testimony, throughout the whole case, we understand, to be of the clearest and most direct kind. —Phila. Gaz.

A countryman, a short time ago, on being liberated from St. Augustine's jail, walked into a neighboring ale house, and asked for a pint of beer, informing the landlord, at the same time, that he had no money, but that, if he would furnish the supply, he would tell him something greatly to his advantage. Boniface hesitated, but finding the man's countenance to wear an honest sort of appearance, placed before him a 'tankard of mild.' A few minutes elapsed, and the beer had vanished, and with it mine host's patience, for he eagerly demanded the promised information.—'Hark ye,' responded the newly released delinquent,—'If you should be unfortunate enough to get on the tread mill, the easiest berth is against the wall.—Kentish Chron.

We are confident, says the Alexandria Gazette, that, at no distant day, the Southern manufactories will far outstrip those carried on to the North, for the simple reason, that slave labor can be successfully and most profitably employed. The time was when such an opinion would have found no favorers. Now, we believe, it is getting to be universally admitted. We think we see clearly the dawning of a new era in the prospects of the South from this fact alone. We have recently seen statistical statements, which satisfy us that when the Cotton Factories, now talked of, are put into operation, in the Southern country, we shall find the slave labor more valuable and useful than it has yet been to the people in our section of the country.

A. S. Johnstone, editor of the Columbia Telescope, has, in a card to the public, published in that paper, of the 5th inst., designated Gen. Blair, a Representative, from South Carolina, in Congress, by epithets which must, we conceive, lead to unpleasant results. The reason assigned by Mr. Johnstone, for the publication of his card, is the refusal of Gen. Blair to answer, satisfactorily, Mr. Johnstone's notes to him, asking explanations for declining to treat with him, as the friend of Col. Hill, in some dispute between that gentleman and Gen. Blair.

Lynn Manufactures.—From statistical accounts, in extenso, of this business, as presented the other day, in MS., to Mr. Clay, and now reported in the Lynn Record, we gather that, in 1831, the whole value of boots and shoes made at Lynn was $942,000; 60 manufactories; total average of stock on hand, $153,015; average to each one, $2,550; materials used in the manufacture worth $413,350; of which the lasting cost $98,531; sole leather, $145,236; ribbon, 31,236; morocco skins, $35,735; galloon, $17,575; sheep skins, $19,188; neat's leather, $14,224; domestic sheeting, $8,192; shoe thread, $7,401; R. sheeting and ticklenburg, $21,936; sewing silk, $6,500; and even the binding thread, $3,955; and the steel ornaments, $3,938; all these, exclusive of several thousand dollars' worth of paste, rosin, and other small articles. The total number of boots and shoes made was 1,675,781; average number of journeymen employed, 1,741; of binders, 1,675; in the whole business, about seven eighths of the working people of the town, besides some hundreds from other towns. All this was two years ago, since which the business is said to have increased one fifth, and two fifths of the whole amount are thought to consist of labor. This would make the whole value manufactured $1,130,000; the labor $452,000.—Bost. Jour.

A BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.

The Press.—We defy our cotemporaries to select, from the whole range of English literature, a finer passage than the following, which is taken from the Foreign Review, No. 6, for April, 1829. The subject treated on is the benefit of printing, and the writer (whoever he is, and we should like to know his name,) has treated his subject in a masterly manner. Indeed, the whole article, from which the following extract is made, being strictures on the life and writings of Voltaire, is beautifully written.—Lowell Jour.

"When Tamerlane had finished building his pyramid of seventy thousand human skulls, and was seen, standing at the gate of Damascus, glittering with steel, with his battle axe on his shoulder, till his fierce hosts filed out to new victories and carnage, the pale on looker might have fancied that nature was in her death throes—for havoc and despair had taken possession of the earth, and the sun of manhood seemed setting in seas of blood. Yet it might be, on that very gala day, a little boy was playing nine pins in the streets of Mentz, whose history was more important to men then twenty Tamerlanes! The Tartar Khan, with his shaggy demons of the wilderness, passed away like a whirlwind, to be forgotten for ever—and that German artisan has wrought a benefit, which is yet immeasurably expanding itself, and will continue to expand itself through all countries and through all time. What are the conquests and expeditions of the whole corporation of Captains, from Walter the Penniless to Napoleon Bonaparte, compared with these moveable types of Johannes Faust?"

Of Benjamin F. Butler, of Albany, appointed Attorney General of the United States, the National Intelligencer says—No better selection for the office could probably be made from the party candidates for the office. Mr. B. is, we believe, a sound lawyer, and possessed of more than ordinary natural ability.—That he is a staunch friend of Mr. Van Buren, is probably not his least recommendation for a seat in the Cabinet.

Railway between Calais and Paris.—The contracts for iron on the part of the French Government have already been completed with an eminent British firm in the iron trade. It is anticipated that when finished the distance between Calais and the French capital (upwards of 170 English miles) will be performed, including every stoppage for the necessary supplies, in about nine hours.

At the recent election in Georgia, Mr. Lumpkin, the Union candidate, received 30,861 votes—Mr. Crawford, the Nullifier, 28,585; giving Lumpkin a majority of 2,276.

GENERAL ORDER.

All Midshipmen, whether passed or not, who have seen sea service, and are not on duty or furlough, will, after their leaves of absence expire, consider it their duty to repair to the Navy Yard near Norfolk, New York, or Boston, as may be most convenient, and there attend the naval school and perform such services as may be required of them, under the superintendence of the commander of the yard.

The Commander of each Yard will furnish those, who report under this order, suitable accomdation in the receiving ships or vessels in ordinary, and suitable opportunities for professional instruction and employment in conformity with the general regulations prescribed by this department. As the present measure is intended to be highly beneficial to the midshipmen, he will not, beyond the usual pay and rations, make any allowances for the execution of it.

LEVI WOODBURY.

Navy Department, 15th Nov. 1833.

In reply to inquiries from a distance, it is proper to state that, as far as we know of, the Randolph case, as it is called, has died a natural death. The "conspirators," ruffian confederates," &c., &c., have turned out to be, as we predicted, a set of "knaves in Kendall green," who have made themselves invisible.—Alex. Gaz.

The British government has lost $150,000 by the defalcations of the Post Masters in Ireland.

The editor of the Boston Traveller has copied the following inscription from a grave stone in the old burying ground at Concord, in the State of Massachusetts.

God wills us free, Man wills us slaves.
I will as God wills, God's will be done.
Here lies the body of
JOHN JACK,
A native of Africa,
Who died March, 1773, aged about 60 years.
Though born in a land of Slavery,
He was born free.
Though he lived in a land of Liberty,
He lived a slave.
Till by his honest, though stolen, labors,
He acquired the source of Slavery,
Which gave him his freedom.
Though not long before
Death—the great Tyrant—
Gave him his final emancipation,
And set him on a footing with kings.
Though a slave to Vice,
He practised those Virtues,
Without which, kings are but slaves.

MARRIAGE HYMN—BY MRS. SIGOURNEY.

Not for the summer hour alone,
When skies resplendent shine,
And youth and pleasure fill the throne,
Our hearts and hands we join—

But for those stern and wintry days,
Of sorrow, pain, and fear,
When Heaven's wise discipline doth make
Our earthly journey drear.

Not for this span of life alone,
Which like a blast doth fly,
And as transient flower of grass
Just blossom—droop, and die;

But for a being without end,
This vow of love we take,—
Grant us, Oh God—one home at last,
For our Redeemer's sake.

TO A LADY.—BY F. G. HALLECK.

The world is bright before thee;
Its summer flowers are thine;
Its calm blue sky is o'er thee;
Thy bosom virtue's shrine:
And thine the sunbeam given
To nature's morning hour,
Pure, warm, as when from heaven
It burnt on Eden's bower.

There is a song of sorrow—
The death dirge of the gay—
That tells ere dawn of morrow,
Those charms may melt away,
That sun's bright beam be shaded,
That sky be blue no more,
The summer flower be faded,
And youth's warm promise o'er.

Believe it not—though lonely
The winning home may be;
Though beauty's bark can only
Float on a summer sea;
Though time thy bloom is stealing,
There's still beyond his art
The wild flower wreath of feeling—
The sunbeam of the heart.

HARRISBURGH CHRONICLE—EXTRA. Published, Twice a Week, by Hugh Hamilton & Son.—Reports of Proceedings of the Pennsylvania Legislature.—The Harrisburgh Chronicle will contain a concise and faithful report of the proceedings and debates of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, which will commence its session in Harrisburgh, on the first Tuesday of December next. The Senior Editor will report in one of the legislative branches, and an experienced and competent Reporter is engaged to attend in the other. Such reports will be furnished as are calculated to put the reader in possession of a history of the Session of 1833-4; to do which, the faculty of condensation shall be employed for the benefit of the reader, even though it may sometimes be unpleasant to the legislator; for the topics that must, of course, come up for discussion, will be more numerous, important, and diversified than they have been heretofore, and there is every probability that the exciting questions that must necessarily be agitated in Congress, will also become exciting questions in the Legislature of the State, and add to the interest of the Session.

The proceedings of the Legislature of the State are full of interest to the citizen, and an intimate acquaintance with them is almost an indispensable requisite, when he comes forward on election day to exercise his sovereignty in the capacity of a voter. Hence every citizen ought to possess a fair and faithful report of the proceedings, and it is hoped that those who do not choose the Chronicle will take some other paper for this purpose.

TERMS.—For the Session alone, twice a week, in advance, - $2 00
For the whole year, in advance, 3 00

☞ Persons furnishing six subscribers, and enclosing $10, shall have a seventh copy forwarded regularly for their trouble.

A Partner Wanted.

THE Subscriber, being possessed of a valuable property in the Borough of Brownsville, in the county of Fayette, and state of Pennsylvania, in a public part of the town, consisting of two and a half lots of ground, bounded by Water street on the north, and the National Road on the south, say 150 feet on each, by 180 feet in depth, on which are erected one large three story Brick Dwelling House, one two story Brick Dwelling House, one Brick Foundry, one three story Stone and Brick Engine Shop; the whole of which are finished for the purposes intended. A considerable business has been and still is carried on in Manufacturing Steam Engines for Steam Boats, Mills, Furnaces, &c. &c.; the Castings for which are made at the foundry; also, other Castings, such as Grates, Stoves, and a variety of other articles, all of which are in demand. The subscriber is fully sensible that an extensive and profitable business could be carried on by an accession of Capital: he therefore wishes to sell one half the above described property to some person as a partner, who would have a few thousand dollars. Brownsville is well situated for such an establishment, being on the Monongahela river, which is navigable the greater part of the year: plenty of good stone coal in the whole vicinity, and in the neighborhood of a number of Furnaces, and as healthy a situation as any in the United States. A further description is deemed unnecessary, as any person wishing to purchase will come and view the premises.

DAILY PAPER AT HARRISBURGH.—The subscribers propose to publish a Daily Paper during the coming session of the Legislature, provided a sufficient number of subscribers are procured to warrant the expense. The necessity of a daily journal at the seat of government, impartial as to politics, and giving the debates of both houses, fully, faithfully, and daily, has long since been acknowledged. Such a paper cannot be sustained in Harrisburg, unless the citizens of other sections of the state come forward and aid in its support. At the present stage of our improvement system, and fiscal conserns of the commonwealth, a daily paper, the statements of which can be depended upon, published at the seat of government, must be a desideratum of all parties. We therefore shall expect that exertions will be made in every section of the state to procure us subscribers.

The Daily Pennsylvania Intelligencer will be printed on a half imperial sheet, for five dollars (in advance,) during the session. It will not only contain full and impartial daily reports of the proceedings of the Legislature, but will contain a summary of the proceedings of Congress, besides news and miscellaneous reading. ☞ Post Masters and Agents procuring four subscribers, shall receive a fifth copy gratis.

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Frankiin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land	containing	330 acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
1	do	do	40
	other lots, containing about		6

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county---and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others--- a soil rich and productive---the neighborhood abounding in coal---well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

AMERICAN RAILROAD JOURNAL, and Advocate of Internal Improvements, which is designed as a repository of the accounts of the rise and progress of numerous works of Internal Improvement, in the United States particularly, and in other parts of the world generally. The work is published weekly, and forms a large octavo volume each year, of 832 pages of 3 columns each, for $3 per annum, in advance.

This work is designed for the agriculturist, and will be found to contain much, both interesting and profitable, to those who cultivate the soil as a business, or merely a garden for amusement. Published in monthly parts of 32 large octavo pages, with three columns each, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States--In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM. ☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solations, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
